INGALLS DECLARES BRUNNER IS "REAL GOVERNOR OF OHIO"

Republican Gubernatorial Candidate Attacks Democratic Chairman

165 AT LUNCHEON

Charges White Submits to Dictation

"Heinie Brunner of Mansfield, the Democratic 'boss,' i. the real governor of Ohio," David S. Ingalls, Republican nominee for governor, charged in an address at the Grand Opera House Tuesday afternoon.

"I thought I was running against George White of Marietta," Ingalls declared, "but it begins to look as though Mr. Brunner is the 'power behind the throne' in the present administration He seems to do all the talking and I understand he makes most of the important decisions."

"Business men—even Democratic business men—tell me you've got to see Mr. Brunner if you want to do business with the great State of Ohio," Ingalls said, continuing his charge that "no governor in recent years has so completely submitted to political dictation."

"I'll promise you that if I am elected Governor I will be the Governor—and I'll move the Governor's office back to the State House in Columbus. I have made no promises to anyone and won't make any," he said, "except that I will administer the state to the best of my ability and in the interest of all of the people."

Discussing the issues of his campaign Ingalls said the "greatest good" a state administration can accomplish is "to remove from the people the present destructive burden of taxation resulting from excessive governmental expenditures." He pledged his administration to "abolish every unessential activity and to reorganize the state department solely along lines of efficiency and economy."

Ingalls complimented the citizens of Circleville on their splendid display of civic spirit and lauded the Pumpkin Show as the oldest and most unique celebration of its kind in the country. County Fairs and harvest festivals are "mighty worthwhile" and should be encouraged in every possible way, he said.

"Although I am considered a city man," Ingalls said, "I am particularly interested in the problems of the farmers, for after all, the farmers own 82 percent, of the land in Ohio and our land is the real basis of our wealth. And the farmer is the easiest victim for the tax sharks because everything he owns is plainly visible — its hard to conceal real estate.

GETS BETTER PRICE

"The Ohio farmer, in spite of his troubles, has many things to be thankful for. He gets a better price for his products than the farmer in Canada or in the Argentines, or in the entire world, for that matter," Ingalls remarked.

"But that doesn't dispoise of the fact that our public debt here in Ohio—amounting to more than $900,000,000—hangs around the necks of the tax-payers like a millstone and is driving property owners and businessmen out of our state today. We have simply got to quit giving our governors any more money to spend.

"I am absolutely against any additional taxes for state purposes and I think we ought to curb our local taxes by making it more

HUNT BOMBERS IN OHIO CASE

Home of Sandusky Bootleg King Wrecked By Explosion Early Today.

SANDUSKY, Oct 4.— A dragnet for the rounding of racketeers was thrown out by police today in the wake of a dynamite explosion which wrecked one dwelling and set fire to another on Clintonst in an improved residential section this morning.

Neither of the damaged houses was occupied, police said. Another residence nearby was severely shaken by the blast, and its owner, J. G. Clark, his wife and two daughters were thrown from their beds by the impact

The dwelling destroyed by the blast, police said, was owned by Theodore Wobser, former reputed "beer Lord" of Sandusky, who is now serving a nine-months term in the Dayton workhouse following his conviction on liquor charges on a federal warrant.

The explosion was attributed by police to a bombing, and authorities said it probably came as a reprisal.

Police recalled that a member of the "Purple Gang" of Detroit was arrested in Sandusky last week and ordered out of town after arrest. An immediate search for other out-of-town underworld characters was started when the dragnet was ordered over the city.

TO SUPREME COURT

COLUMBUS, Oct 4—Heaped with condemnation the decision of the Ohio utilities commission setting a 55-cent gas rate in the famous Columbus gas rate case, was headed straight to the supreme court today.

Concerted action to appeal the decision swept into whirlwind momentum while Gov George White was placed under the glaring spotlight of criticism and openly accused of being a "tool of the giant, utilities"

AL, FRANK TO BURY HATCHET

Believe Both Men Back Col. Lehman For Governorship of New York.

ALBANY, N Y., Oct. 4—A good deal of Democratic history is being made in Albany during this important week before the president election.

Before it is ended, it may see the burying of the hatchet between Al Smith and Franklin D. Roosevelt, witness a marked decline in Tammany's prestige in state affairs, and see the beginning of a new alignment in the Democratic affairs of New York state.

Maybe the hatchet between Smith and Roosevelt won't be buried here. But there are many indications that point that way.

For one thing, they are united behind the gubernatorial candidacy of Col. H. H. Lehman. And unless there is a dramatic and unexpected eleventh hour switch of some kind, Col Lehman is going to be nominated, despite the fact th Tammany is cool to him if not actually hostile.

The expectation is that Col. Lehman's name will be placed in nomination by none other than Smith himself. It will afford Smith opportunity, if he cares to grasp it, of speaking a word for the national ticket of Roosevelt and Garner.

HOPPLE PLANS QUICKER WORK IN RATE CASES

Program Designed to Complete Contested Case In Six Months Aired

AVOID CRITICISM

Chairman of Board Outlines His Idea

COLUMBUS, Oct. 4.—A program designed to speed up the disposition of rate cases before the State Utilities Commission and to eliminate public criticism that has resulted from delays on pending cases, was announced today by Edward J. Hopple, Cleveland, chairman of the commission

"It is my personal conviction that the largest rate case can be presented and determined within a period of time not to exceed six months," Hopple declared.

DEPENDS ON COUNSEL

"This would involve the proper application of the statutes and the willingness to work on the part of counsel representing both sides of the case as well as the expert engineers and members of the commission."

Hopple said he will insist in all future cases that attorneys on both sides of the controversy fully equip the preparation of their case and that their exhibits and other evidence involved be exchanged in advance of the date for the initial hearing.

Under such a plan Hopple said all rate cases should be disposed of in a relatively short time.

OHIO'S COAL MINERS LOSE

Lower Rates Granted Competitors of Ohio Mines By National Body.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 4.—Nearly all the advantages obtained by eastern Ohio coal operators in recent rate reductions ordered by the state Utilities commission were swept away today when the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington granted rate reductions to Pennsylvania operators.

The order by the federal commission permitting the Pittsburgh and West Virginia railroads to reduce its coal freight rates from western Pennsylvania to northern Ohio markets again placed Ohio and Pennsylvania operators on even terms in the right for sales in Cleveland in the opinion of operators here

A temporary advantage was given Ohio operators in the rate cuts ordered by the state commission Aug. 1. The Pennsylvania started its contest before the I. C. C. as a result . Similar reductions probably will be ordered for West Virginia operators, also Ohio rivals. it was predicted here.

Hocking Valley operators will not be as hard hit by the I. C. C. ruling as those in eastern Ohio because they do not compete so strongly for the "steam coal" business as their neighbors

A thorough investigation of the coal freight rate controversy is planned by the interstate commerce Commission as a result of the various protests filed by operators and railroads of the bituminous coal district and new action may be taken later.

Report 50 Lost In Freight Car

Bodies of 10 victims have been recovered, and five more persons are known dead.

A revised estimate by officials placed the toll of dead at 45, and the damage at $2,000,000.

Over disputed lines of communications word reached here that 21 men were "bumming" their way on one box car of the freight train which was swept away by the 50-foot torrent of water.

The box car was reported to have been completely buried near Mojave under debris which was the fate of one of the two railroad locomotives trapped by the flood.

SANDUSKY, Oct. 4.— A dragnet for the rounding of racketeers was thrown out by police today in the wake of a dynamite explosion which wrecked one dwelling and set fire to another on Clinton-st in an improved residential section this morning.

Neither of the damaged houses was occupied, police said. Another residence nearby was severely shaken by the blast, and its owner, J. G. Clark, his wife and two daughters were thrown from their beds by the impact.

The dwelling destroyed by the blast, police said, was owned by Theodore Wobser, former reputed "beer Lord" of Sandusky, who is now serving a nine-months term in the Dayton workhouse following his conviction on liquor charges on a federal warrant.

The explosion was attributed by police to a bombing, and authorities said it probably came as a reprisal.

Police recalled that a member of the "Purple Gang" of Detroit was arrested in Sandusky last week and ordered out of town after arrest. An immediate search for other out-of-town underworld characters was started when the dragnet was ordered over the city.

WARNING ISSUED

Sheriff's Office Reports Things Pumpkin Show Visitors Should Watch.

A warning was issued from the office of Sheriff Charles Radcliff Tuesday of several things to be observed during Pumpkin Show.

They are that all automobilists should be certain to lock their cars when they park them; that persons living in rural sections should leave a light burning in their homes when they attend the Pumpkin Show; that merchants should be careful whose checks they cash.

The city will be patrolled by members of the sheriff's office and the police department during the entire week.

TO SUPREME COURT

COLUMBUS, Oct. 4.—Heaped with condemnation, the decision of the Ohio utilities commission setting a 55-cent gas rate in the famous Columbus gas rate case, was headed straight for the supreme court today.

Concerted action to appeal the decision swept into whirlwind momentum while Gov. George White was placed under the glaring spotlight of criticism and openly accused of being a "tool of the giant utilities."

AL, FRANK TO BURY HATCHET

Believe Both Men Back Col. Lehman For Governorship of New York.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 4.—A good deal of Democratic history is being made in Albany during this important week before the president election.

Before it is ended, it may see the burying of the hatchet between Al Smith and Franklin D. Roosevelt, witness a marked decline in Tammany's prestige in state affairs, and see the beginning of a new alignment in the Democratic affairs of New York state.

Maybe the hatchet between Smith and Roosevelt won't be buried here. But there are many indications that point that way.

For one thing, they are united behind the gubernatorial candidacy of Col. H. H. Lehman. And unless there is a dramatic and unexpected eleventh hour switch of some kind, Col. Lehman is going to be nominated, despite the fact th Tammany is cool to him if not actually hostile.

The expectation is that Col. Lehman's name will be placed in nomination by none other than Smith himself. It will afford Smith opportunity, if he cares to grasp it, of speaking a word for the national ticket of Roosevelt and Garner.

HOPPLE PLANS QUICKER WORK IN RATE CASES

Program Designed to Complete Contested Case In Six Months Aired

AVOID CRITICISM

Chairman of Board Outlines His Idea

COLUMBUS, Oct. 4.—A program designed to speed up the disposition of rate cases before the State Utilities Commission and to eliminate public criticism that has resulted from delays on pending cases, was announced today by Edward J. Hopple, Cleveland, chairman of the commission.

"It is my personal conviction that the largest rate case can be presented and determined within a period of time not to exceed six months," Hopple declared.

DEPENDS ON COUNSEL

"This would involve the proper application of the statutes and the willingness to work on the part of counsel representing both sides of the case as well as the expert engineers and members of the commission."

Hopple said he will insist in all future cases that attorneys on both sides of the controversy fully equip the preparation of their case and that their exhibits and other evidence involved be exchanged in advance of the date for the initial hearing.

Under such a plan Hopple said all rate cases should be disposed of in a relatively short time.

OHIO'S COAL MINERS LOSE

Lower Rates Granted Competitors of Ohio Mines By National Body.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 4.—Nearly all the advantages obtained by eastern Ohio coal operators in recent rate reductions ordered by the state Utilities commission were swept away today when the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington granted rate reductions to Pennsylvania operators.

The order by the federal commission permitting the Pittsburgh and West Virginia railroads to reduce its coal freight rates from western Pennsylvania to northern Ohio markets again placed Ohio and Pennsylvania operators on even terms in the fight for sales in Cleveland in the opinion of operators here.

A temporary advantage was given Ohio operators in the rate cuts ordered by the state commission Aug. 1. T he Pennsylvania started its contest before the I. C. C. as a result . Similar reductions probably will be ordered for West Virginia operators, also Ohio rivals, it was predicted here.

Hocking Valley operators will not be as hard hit by the I. C. C. ruling as those in eastern Ohio because they do not compete so strongly for the "steam coal" business as their neighbors.

A thorough investigation of the coal freight rate controversy is planned by the interstate commerce Commission as a result of the various protests filed by operators and railroads of the bituminous coal district and new action may be taken later.

A revised estimate by officials placed the toll of dead at 45, and the damage at $2,000,000.

Over disputed lines of communications word reached here that 21 men were "bumming" their way on one box car of the freight train which was swept away by the 50-foot torrent of water.

The box car was reported to have been completely buried near Mojave under debris which was the fate of one of the two railroad locomotives trapped by the flood.

Early Monday builders were erecting stands for the numerous displays and by Tuesday evening practically everything was ready for the grand opening.

The advent of the Show will be observed by ringing of chimes in the courthouse tower. This program is expected to require about five minutes. TIGER COACH ALTERS HIS TEAM'S ATTACK

All Old Plays Tossed Into Discard; Lee Cook May Enter Backfield.

Convinced that the offensive he has been using in an effort to win football games will not prove effective against good competition, Coach Pete Herberholz began Monday evening to install a complete new system of attack.

Every play that has been used in the two games played against Lancaster hign school and against Lancaster St. Mary has been discarded and when the Tigers take the field Friday afternoon here against Westerville in the opening Central Buckeye league contest a new system of offense can be expected.

GOUL LINE MYTH

In neither of the two previous contests has the Tiger team dented the opponents' goal line and Coach Herberholz has decided something must be done.

Not only is a shakeup in the offensive plans for the team being made but a new face will probably appear in the backfield Friday afternoon. Lee Cook who has been doing well as a guard may be switched to the backfield to help clear a path for the ball carriers. Cook is a good blocker and should show to advantage in the backfield.

Westerville, although failing to show much in one game this year, will play Circleville in the hope of victory Friday. Westerville and Circleville are hot rivals in each department of sport in the Central Buckeye league, and Frank Ballenger, the visiting coach, will be out for revenge for a 30-0 defeat received here last year.

ONE BACKFIELD ACE

Coach Ballenger has seven letter men but only one of these is a back, J. Schick who is captain. The other letter men include Freeman and Williams ends, Bluhm and Short tackles, McVay a guard and Gantz at center.

Schick will probably start at quarterback with Ballard and Parker at halves and Collier at fullback.

Winner of World Series

Oh, so you thought a ball club won the series, did you? Well, you weren't the only one. But here is the real winner. She is Miss June O'Day, beautiful Broadway show girl, who is to become the bride of Vernon ("Lefty") Gomez (inset), star hurler of the New York Yankees who glittered so brilliantly in the series. When this photo was made, June was keeping in touch with what Lefty was doing against the Cubs, via radio.

OHIO WESLEYAN, OHIO U. AND CASE LOOK STRONG IN OHIO

By WESLEY FESLER
All-American Football Star in 1928 and 1930.
Written Especially for The Herald.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 4—They're rounding the first turn in tre Ohio collegiate football race and Ohio Wesleyan, Ohio university and Case are far ahead.

All three teams lost their games Saturday— Wesleyan to Ohio State, 34 to 7; Ohio U. to Indiana, 7 to 6, and Case to Colgate, 27 to 0—but to me tney're the leading candidates for greatness this season.

It looks like a great year is ahead for Ohio football when you peer behind the scores and see what actually happened when those three teams were going down to defeat out there Saturday.

None of the three was badly beaten, despite the scores.

Ohio university doubtless showed to the best advantage in the heartbreaking 7 to 6 game, which by the way, is a repetition of last year's score. The close game with Indiana makes Ohio U. appear again to be the best bet in the Buckeye conference.

That Ohio Wesleyan team gave everybody a surprise at the Ohio Stadium, especially those in the crowd of 18,000 who were expecting to see the Buckeyes run at will through the Bishops for touchdowns.

Even with Carl Cramer, the star Ohio State quarterback, showing flashes of brillance, and Capt. Lew Hinchman getting off occassionally on his usual stride, the Ohio State team did well to defeat the Methodists by the score they did.

Ohio State, in its first game naturally played some spotty football.

One of the real acts of heroism of the week-end was the showing of Case at Colgate. Coach Andy Kerr was forced to call on all of his regulars before Colgate could subdue the fighting Scientists from Cleveland. Case's light team fought itself out before it finally succumbed to the power and reserve strength of the Maroons Nothwithstanding the 27-0 defeat Case will be heard from when it plays teams in its own conference.

Miami, beaten by Illinois, 20 to 7, will get into its own company this week with a game against DePauw.

Manager Al Mamaux of the International league champions was undecided as to his choice for starting pitcher in today's tussle He indicated that either Jim Weaver or Harry Holschak will do the tossing.

OHIO, INDIANA TILT WATCHED

Hoosiers Rate as Strongest In Years; Veteran Line To Be Strong.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 4 —Ohio State University and Indiana football teams will open the Western Conference grid campaign Saturday afternoon in the Ohio Stadium Ohio State is rated as one of the best elevens in the Big Ten and the Hoosiers have one of their best teams in years.

The Hossiers have a veteran line from end to end and the same dangerous backfield as of 1931 The Ohio Staters look for a strenuous battle. In his second year as Hoosier coach, E. C. Hayes is said to possess a wealth of material and a fighting team. The squad will arrive in Columbus early Friday and work out at the Stadium in the afternoon.

The majority of victories since the first game between the two schools in 1901 rests with Ohio State with 8 wins, 6 losses and 2 ties However, not until the seventh game between the two elevens did the Buckeyes emerge on the right side of the ledger.

Unless forestalled by injuries, Coach Sam Williaman is expected to start the same line-up that inaugurated the season Saturday against Ohio Wesleyan.

MINNESOTA STAR CRITICALLY ILL

MINNESOTA, Minn., Oct. 4.— It was a different sort of game that Myron Ubl, star University of Minnesota halfback, was playing today. Life, not victory on the gridiron, was the stake as the Gopher gladiator lay on a bed in University hospital, putting up a game, but losing, battle against the ravages of double pneumonia

Just a few yards away from the hospital the ailing youth's teammates were going through their practice paces. But, the passing, tackling and kicking was only mechanical. Zest and enthusiasm were absent, Ubl was out of the lineup.

HAS SLIM CHANCE

Gloom pervaded the entire campus when doctors announced that the hard-driving, triple-threat pigskin warrior had slim chance to survive

The double pneumonia set in as an after-effect of an injury received in scrimmage a little more than a week ago. Ubl was internally wounded in the chest where an abscess developed to be followed by pneumonia

An operation to drain off fluid around his lungs precipitated the critical condition and oxygen was being administered periodically to prolong the popular player's life

Passing of Jesse Pomeroy Recalls Career of Horror

Notorious Child Killer of Last Century Spent Fifty-six Years in Prison—Forty in Solitary Confinement. Was Convicted at Age of Fourteen

LEAVING PRISON FOR STATE FARM. JESSE POMEROY

Though he had petitioned Governor after Governor in an attempt to obtain his freedom, Jesse Pomeroy owes his gratitude to death for release from the bondage in which he spent the last fifty-six years of his life. Pomeroy was convicted at the age of fourteen of atrociously murdering and mutilating 4-year-old Horace Millen, of South Boston. He was suspected of having killed others, among them Kittie Curren, whose mangled body was found under a pile of ashes in his father's cellar. Sentenced to be hanged, Pomeroy's extreme youth saved him from the gallows, owing to Governor William Gaston's refusal to sign a death warrant. Later Gaston's successor, Governor Alexander Rice, commuted the sentence to life imprisonment. Pomeroy started his long sentence at the Massachusetts State Prison, Charlestown, in 1876, and spent the first forty years in solitary confinement. In 1917, however, he was permitted to eat with his fellow prisoners and to attend religious services in the prison. In 1930 he was transferred to the State Prison Farm at Bridgewater, where he remained until he died at the age of seventy.

TIGER COACH ALTERS HIS TEAM'S ATTACK

Convinced that the offensive he has been using in an effort to win football games will not prove effective against good competition, Coach Pete Herberholz began Monday evening to install a complete new system of attack.

Every play that has been used in the two games played against Lancaster hign school and against Lancaster St. Mary has been discarded and when the Tigers take the field Friday afternoon here against Westerville in the opening Central Buckeye league contest a new system of offense can be expected.

GOUL LINE MYTH

In neither of the two previous contests has the Tiger team dented the opponents' goal line and Coach Herberholz has decided something must be done.

Not only is a shakeup in the offensive plans for the team being made but a new face will probably appear in the backfield Friday afternoon. Lee Cook who has been doing well as a guard may be switched to the backfield to help clear a path for the ball carriers. Cook is a good blocker and should show to advantage in the backfield.

Westerville, although failing to show much in one game this year, will play Circleville in the hope of victory Friday. Westerville and Circleville are hot rivals in each department of sport in the Central Buckeye league, and Frank Ballenger, the visiting coach, will be out for revenge for a 30-0 defeat received here last year.

ONE BACKFIELD ACE

Coach Ballenger has seven letter men but only one of these is a back, J. Schick who is captain. The other letter men include Freeman and Williams ends, Bluhm and Short tackles, McVay a guard and Gantz at center.

Schick will probably start at quarterback with Ballard and Parker at halves and Collier at fullback.

Winner of World Series

Oh, so you thought a ball club won the series, did you? Well, you weren't the only one. But here is the real winner. She is Miss June O'Day, beautiful Broadway show girl, who is to become the bride of Vernon ("Lefty") Gomez (inset), star hurler of the New York Yankees who glittered so brilliantly in the series. When this photo was made, June was keeping in touch with what Lefty was doing against the Cubs, via radio.

OHIO WESLEYAN, OHIO U. AND CASE LOOK STRONG IN OHIO

By WESLEY FESLER
All-American Football Star in 1928 and 1930.
Written Especially for The Herald.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 4—They're rounding the first turn in tre Ohio collegiate football race and Ohio Wesleyan, Ohio university and Case are far ahead.

All three teams lost their games Saturday— Wesleyan to Ohio State, 34 to 7; Ohio U. to Indiana, 7 to 6, and Case to Colgate, 27 to 0—but to me they're the leading candidates for greatness this season.

It looks like a great year is ahead for Ohio football when you peer behind the scores and see what actually happened when those three teams were going down to defeat out there Saturday.

None of the three was badly beaten, despite the scores.

Ohio university doubtless showed to the best advantage in the heartbreaking 7 to 6 game, which by the way, is a repetition of last year's score. The close game with Indiana makes Ohio U. appear again to be the best bet in the Buckeye conference.

That Ohio Wesleyan team gave everybody a surprise at the Ohio Stadium, especially those in the crowd of 18,000 who were expecting to see the Buckeyes run at will through the Bishops for touchdowns.

Even with Carl Cramer, the star Ohio State quarterback, showing flashes of brillance, and Capt. Lew Hinchman getting off occassionally on his usual stride, the Ohio State team did well to defeat the Methodists by the score they did.

Ohio State, in its first game, naturally played some spotty football.

One of the real acts of heroism of the week-end was the showing of Case at Colgate. Coach Andy Kerr was forced to call on all of his regulars before Colgate could subdue the fighting Scientists from Cleveland. Case's light team fought itself out before it finally succumbed to the power and reserve strength of the Maroons. Nothwithstanding the 27-O defeat. Case will be heard from when it plays teams in its own conference.

Miami, beaten by Illinois, 20 to 7, will get into its own company this week with a game against DePauw.

Manager Al Mamaux of the International league champions was undecided as to his choice for starting pitcher in todav's tussle. He indicated that either Jim Weaver or Harry Holschak will do the tossing.

OHIO, INDIANA TILT WATCHED

Hoosiers Rate as Strongest In Years; Veteran Line To Be Strong.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 4.—Ohio State University and Indiana football teams will open the Western Conference grid campaign Saturday afternoon in the Ohio Stadium. Ohio State is rated as one of the best elevens in the Big Ten and the Hoosiers have one of their best teams in years.

The Hossiers have a veteran line from end to end and the same dangerous backfield as of 1931. The Ohio Staters look for a strenuous battle. In his second year as Hoosier coach, E. C. Hayes is said to possess a wealth of material and a fighting team. The squad will arrive in Columbus early Friday and work out at the Stadium in the afternoon.

The majority of victories since the first game between the two schools in 1901 rests with Ohio State with 8 wins, 6 losses and 2 ties. However, not until the seventh game between the two elevens did the Buckeyes emerge on the right side of the ledger.

Unless forestalled by injuries, Coach Sam Williaman is expected to start the same line-up that inaugurated the season Saturday against Ohio Wesleyan.

MINNESOTA STAR CRITICALLY ILL

MINNESOTA, Minn., Oct. 4.—It was a different sort of game that Myron Ubl, star University of Minnesota halfback, was playing today. Life, not victory on the gridiron, was the stake as the Gopher gladiator lay on a bed in University hospital, putting up a game, but losing, battle against the ravages of double pneumonia.

Just a few yards away from the hospital the ailing youth's teammates were going through their practice paces. But, the passing, tackling and kicking was only mechanical. Zest and enthusiasm were absent, "Mi" was out of the lineup.

HAS SLIM CHANCE

Gloom pervaded the entire campus when doctors announced that the hard-driving, triple-threat pigskin warrior had slim chance to survive.

The double pneumonia set in as an after-effect of an injury received in scrimmage a little more than a week ago. Ubl was internally wounded in the chest where an abscess developed to be followed by pneumonia.

An operation to drain off fluid around his lungs precipitated the critical condition and oxygen was being administered periodically to prolong the popular player's life.

Swanson said he is prepared to move at once for the extradition of Samuel Insull from France and Martin Insull from Canada, where they have been living in retirement since shortly after the collapse of the $2,000,000,000 Insull utilities cominion.

* * * * * *

Notorious Child Killer of Last Century Spent Fifty-six Years in Prison—Forty in Solitary Confinement. Was Convicted at Age of Fourteen.

LEAVING PRISON for STATE FARM. JESSE POMEROY

Though he had petitioned Governor after Governor in an attempt to obtain his freedom, Jesse Pomeroy owes his gratitude to death for release from the bondage in which he spent the last fifty-six years of his life. Pomeroy was convicted at the age of fourteen of atrociously murdering and mutilating 4-year-old Horace Millen, of South Boston. He was suspected of having killed others, among them Kittie Curren, whose mangled body was found under a pile of ashes in his father's cellar. Sentenced to be hanged, Pomeroy's extreme youth saved him from the gallows, owing to Governor William Gaston's refusal to sign a death warrant. Later Gaston's successor, Governor Alexander Rice, commuted the sentence to life imprisonment. Pomeroy started his long sentence at the Massachusetts State Prison, Charlestown, in 1876, and spent the first forty years in solitary confinement. In 1917, however, he was permitted to eat with his fellow prisoners and to attend religious services in the prison. In 1930 he was transferred to the State Prison Farm at Bridgewater, where he remained until he died at the age of seventy.

And every year their newspaper advertising expenditures have also increased—including 1932.

In a recent letter to The Herald, W. K. Kellogg, President and Founder of the Kellogg Company, world's largest manufacturers of ready-to-eat cereals, showed his Company's faith in newspapers and business by announcing increased expenditures for 1932.

Kellogg knows newspapers as few advertisers do. Every schedule is placed on a basis of proved sales results. And when they select The Herald to carry Corn Flakes, All-Bran and Whole Wheat Biscuit, they show their confidence in the most productive advertising medium in Circleville.

Gullibility

WITH the best doctors in the world, the fullest enlightenment on medicine and quacks, and the most money to employ competent medical service, the people of the United Sates spend in a year only $190,000,000 for medicine prescribed by physicians but $525,000,000 for patent medicines "prescribed" by their own and largely misrepresentative advertising.

The proverb about the man who has himself for his lawyer has a fool for a client applies with even more force to medicine because there are infinitely more "fools for patients."

Not all of the $525,000,000 is spent for quack remedies but enough of that vast sum enters those channels to make the situation serious. The man or women who buys worthless securities against good advice only stands to lose money but the user of worthless drugs stands to lose health, if not life itself.

It speaks well for the power of advertising and the pursuasiveness of the advertising writer that countless imaginary invalids have more confidence in advertised cure-alls than in the healing powers of physicians and their prescriptions. Doctors might take a cue therefrom with financial benefit to themselves and physical and mental benefit to their patients.

There can be no doubt about it that millions are driven into the pockets of the patent medicine industry each year by the high cost of doctoring. Fear of the doctor's bill leads both men and women to doctor their own ills, both real and imaginary, from the medicine ads and drug counters.

Non-Voters

IT is human nature to esteem that which is obtainable only with effort. That is why the alien sets a higher value on the privilege of the franchise than does the average native-born American, who need only accept it as a heritage. Perhaps a greater portion of the native population would be more keenly vote-conscious if the ballot were the prize in some such examination as the immigrant must undergo.

Less than half the qualified voters in the United States exercise the right of franchise even in national elections, yet three-fifths of all foreign-born whites in the country have acquired American citizenship. And if the present immigration policy continues for a few more years that three-fifths will be increased to something like nine-tenths or better.

Since the flow of immigration was checked a few years ago the work of naturalization and Americanization has been catching up with the demand. Fewer newcomers mean less raw ore dumped into the melting pot, less interference with the processes of fusion, a more homogeneous nation.

There are only about 5,000,000 unnaturalized aliens in the whole United States today, which is phenomenally few when one recalls that at the time immigration was at its peak there were nearly that many in and near New York City alone. Aiding in the work of assimilation is the economic situation, which is chasing many of the unassimilable back to the old country.

Easier Credit

REPORTS that the national credit situation is improved are substantiated by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and banking conditions in the Middle West.

Demands on the R. F. C. for bank, railroad and insurance loans have dwindled in the last month. Two corporation directors see no more of the dark days of last spring and summer. Middle West banks are advertising their credit facilities to attract loan applications for the first time in many months. Only a short time ago President Hoover found it necessary to appeal to these banks to extent feeder loans to live-stock raisers.

Credit conditions in the livestock country are such that R. F. C. loans are no longer necessary, local banks being amply prepared to meet the demands. Lest it compete with the banks the corporation is asking 7 per cent interest on feeder loans.

These items and others seem to bear out the view of government and finance experts that the problems of finance have been solved and the big job remaining is to overcome industrial slackness and its closest to hand, unemployment.

None will dispute for a minute that this easing of the credit situation at the moment rests is due to low prices. As long as prices left no margin of profit to

"MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY"

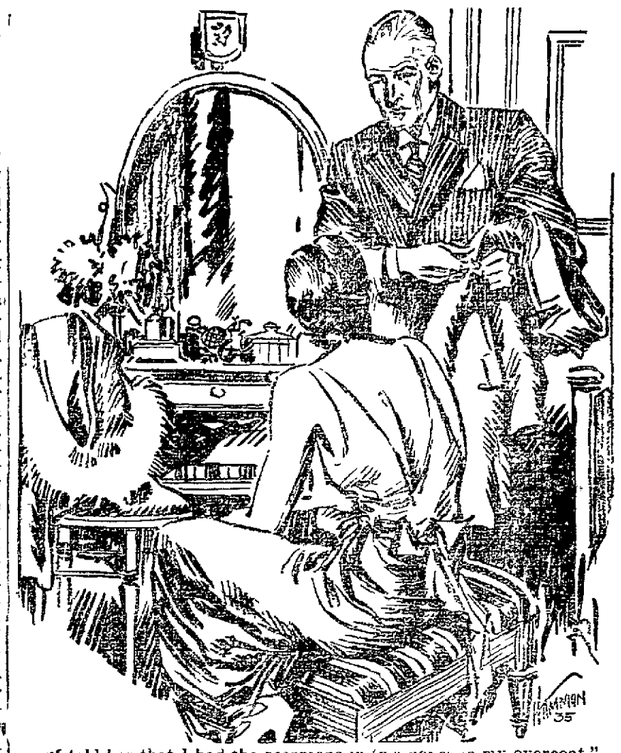
THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY

BY ANTHONY ABBOT

COPYRIGHT, 1931 BY COWAN-FRIEDE INC. DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Lola Carewe, "The Night Club Lady", and her guest, Christine Quires, are mysteriously murdered in the former's apartment. Scorpions were the instruments of death. The police suspect Guy Everett, the last person to see Christine alive. Lola had blackmailed Everett. He, however, claims that Christine discovered a plot to kill Lola and feared for her own life because of her knowledge. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt learns that a young Paris bank clerk, named Basil Boucher, loved Lola. After robbing a bank to buy her a ruby, Basil disappeared. His parents sold medical laboratory specimens. Mrs. Carewe, Lola's mother, became hysterical at the mention of Basil, calling her daughter a beast and saying Lola never loved him. Edgar Quires, Christine's brother, left his Rochester home for New York following the receipt of a telegram the day of the murders. Christine was to have inherited wealth shortly. Suspicion also points to Dr. Hugh Baldwin when it is disclosed that he purchased scorpions. He had stated heart failure caused the deaths. Colt, calling to question Baldwin, finds him dead — from a scorpion bite! Mrs. Baldwin reveals that she knew her husband was involved with Lola. In Baldwin's desk the Commissioner finds a statement in which the doctor explains he accidentally poisoned Gaylord Gifford, Lola's husband. Lola's knowledge of this placed Baldwin in her power. She forced him to supply narcotics which she used to victimize her friends and later blackmailed them. Then she ordered him to obtain a scorpion to commit a murder. Baldwin learned that Vincent Rowland, the lawyer, was behind Lola's blackmailing and realized his knowledge of their activities marked the doctor for death.



"I told her that I had the scorpions in two boxes in my overcoat," Baldwin's letter read.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

"I TOLD Lola that I wanted to see her alone. She consented and took me into the boudoir. I told her that I had the scorpions in two boxes in my overcoat, which I had thrown over my arm as I entered her bedroom. She became very eager and entreated me to let her see them. But I hesitated. I explained to her how dangerous they were. I told her that she ought not to take risks—of any kind. Then I looked her squarely in the eyes and told her that murder was a game that was always caught.

"She looked me in the eye quite as frankly and laughed. She demanded the scorpions and full instructions as to how to manage them. I gave her the boxes with strict instructions and then I started for the door. Just as my hand was on the knob, she called to me.

"I remember her words with the most detestable distinctness.

"'Look here, Baldwin,' she said in her soft and always lovely voice. 'One of these days I may be sending for you on a hurried matter. I mean, somebody may be sick—taken sick all of a sudden. Understand?'

"I nodded. I felt I understood all too well. But I had no idea of the devilish reach of that woman's imagination.

"'Well,' she drawled, 'if that ever happens, I can tell you right now what is expected of you. When you get here, you'll find somebody that's sick. When you do, look on their arm for a bite. On the arm, remember. Then stick your hypo needle right in the bite. Do you understand?'

"I do not know to this day how I stood there without crying out against such a fiendish, damnable scheme. Yet she was looking at me, smiling, serene, beautiful. Yes, I thought, the devil is a woman and the woman is Lola Carewe.

"Vincent Rowland did not answer when I bade him good-night. I went home in the depths of despair. I tried to forget about it. I planned a trip out of town. I would not be there when I was sent for. But I was a coward—the worst coward in history. I was in too deep. I had done criminal things too long. There was no moral strength left for me to draw upon."

Here there was an interruption in this extraordinary manuscript. A smaller sheet of paper was laid between the leaves. On the top, I read:

"I have just been called to Lola's apartment—this New Year's Eve—while I was writing this."

And at the bottom of the page I read:

"Everything has happened—now I am back here—there can be only one end——"

Then the regular pages flowed on in the strong black script.

"Whom did she mean to kill besides myself? Often I debated that question. But she had so many irons in the fire, it might easily be someone I did not even know. I felt comforted by this reflection. But I was like a man walking in a nightmare. Then, only a day or so before New Year's, Lola telephoned me in a rage. Someone had stolen the boxes I had given her.

"The scorpions were gone!

"She blamed me. She accused me of having stolen them back. I had a key to the apartment which she had given me, for often she wanted me to come in and see her without ringing the bell and thus calling attention to my call. She thought I was weakening. She made me promise to get her more scorpions.

"To calm her, I promised that I would obtain two more scorpions. But I explained that it would again take weeks. The specimens had to be sent for. I would have to see my supply man, Ricardo Villafranca.

"However, I kept delaying, but finally did it. Imagine my surprise—my terror—when I received a call to come to Lola's apartment just a few hours ago. But my consternation was increased tenfold when I entered the room and saw the victim was Lola Carewe herself.

"I was in a panic. There she lay. I looked at her arms. She herself had been bitten by the scorpion. The mark was plainly there. In self-defense I said she had ... trouble and then in ... performed the trick ... taught me. I put the ... bite, and thus obliterated ... face.

"But who killed her ... Christine Quires—by ... deadly scorpion bite? I do not know. But I am going to get one more scorpion. After ... of this letter—I truly die by my own hand."

Here, abruptly, the writing ended. There was no signature. Doctor Hugh Baldwin lay dead at our feet. Had he actually taken his own life, in horror and remorse? There seemed little doubt of that. But the accusations—veiled and specific which he had left behind—what of them?

The letter was not the end of the mystery. It was the beginning of a larger and more baffling problem.

Thoughtfully and deliberately, Thatcher Colt filled his pipe and lighted it.

"It is a melancholy probability, Tony," he began, "that Doctor Baldwin could have saved three lives, his own included, had he had the manhood to come down to Center Street and tell me the facts. I could have protected that man from everything, disgrace in his own profession included."

"Looks like this blows up Dougherty's jewel-ring idea," I remarked.

Colt nodded.

"But Dougherty was on the trail of something real—something important," Colt replied. "It happened to be blackmail, instead of jewel thieves—but Dougherty was getting somewhere. More power to him, say I. I have had the Rock-Ribbed Securities Corporation looked up this morning. It was a bucket-shop affair, and the officers have all shipped to South America."

Here the Commissioner paused to relight his pipe.

"That letter of Baldwin's is really very upsetting, about Rowland," he resumed, as he sauntered across the floor. "It reveals the interesting suspicion — for Baldwin seems to have no real proof as yet—that Vincent Rowland is a rogue. Suppose he is? Is he a murderer?"

"If he were the one he had every cause to be the other," I argued.

"And some semblance of opportunity—that is to say, he was on the premises last night. Right! If Rowland were frightened, he might be the man to take bold, decisive action. That has always been his method in his court-room battles,—spectacular affairs, always. Moreover, he might figure that these very three people stood in his way. And yet——"

He stopped short, leaving the sentence unconcluded, while he knelt by the body and stared at it moodily.

"Do Not Overdraw Your Strength Any More Than You Would Your Checking Account," Cautions One Author—Walking Is Beneficial and Cheap

THOUSANDS of persons witnessed and admired the splendid achievements of the athletes who competed in the Olympic Games recently held in California. No one can deny that many of these stalwart and upright young men and women were the very perfection of health.

Exercise is beneficial for everyone. Yet not everybody can indulge in the strenuous exercise that is common for the hardened and well-trained athlete. Too often harm can be traced to poorly supervised exercise, or to overzealous participation in athletics.

It is an accepted fact that a certain amount of muscular exercise is essential to good health. The infant, long before it is able to sit up, obtains this exercise by kicking its feet and throwing its arms about. As the child grows older, its exercise is gradually increased.

Exercise is harmful when taken in excess. It is particularly dangerous for an individual who has an organic defect of some sort. Exercise should never be taken suddenly or severely. It should only be in moderation and gradually increased as the body becomes accustomed to it.

Lack of Exercise

Lack of a regular amount of exercise is detrimental to the health and welfare of the body. The digestion is markedly influenced by lack of exercise. Many persons suffering from constipation can trace this disturbance to insufficient walking and exercising. This particular ailment, so common today, is rarely seen among athletes and persons who daily partake of a certain amount of exercise.

There are many forms of exercise. Often the doctor advises exercise but may not specify what kind or how much. For elderly individuals, golf is beneficial. But it should not be indulged in too strenuously. The person beyond middle life often takes up golf too energetically. In his enthusiasm he forgets about his handicaps and sometimes plays more golf than is good for him. This is particularly dangerous when done on a hot day or after a hard day's work at business.

Benefit of Walking

Golf, horseback-riding, tennis and swimming are forms of exercise that are beneficial, but expensive and beyond the reach of many. I can think of no form of exercise that is more advantageous than walking. Walking is beneficial and within the reach of everyone.

It is a valuable exercise because it is taken outdoors. The advantages of sunshine and fresh air cannot be overemphasized. This form of exercise can be indulged in all year round. In walking, one should always be careful to see that the shoes are well fitting, with low heels and broad toes. Warm stockings should be worn as protection against dampness and cold.

Before attempting any form of exercise, consult with your physician and obtain his approval. Bear in mind that exercise which produces a state of exhaustion is harmful. A physician once remarked to me, "Do not overdraw your strength any more than you would your checking account."

Cliftona Theatre Management To 'Cover' Important Happenings Here.

An effort to show Circleville and Pickaway county movie-goers real happenings will be started this week by Sam Fox, manager of the Cliftona theatre, who has purchased a real movie camera. He will shoot various scenes during the Pumpkin Show and will later present them at the theatre under the title "The Circleville Herald-Cliftona theatre Newsreel."

The camera to be used by Mr. Fox is the same type that all the moving picture production companies use.

"Shots" from various parades, different exhibits of interest and any unusual occurrences during the big Pumpkin Show will be taken to be shown in the screen.

Mr. Fox will take pictures of any important weddings, family reunions, if they are large enough, and any other item of general importance.

AT THE CLIFTONA

A large cast, headed by Clive Brook, Lyle Lee, Charlie Ruggles, Gene Raymond, Frances Dee, Mary Boland, and Adrianne Allen, is featured in "The Night of June 13," screen drama which opens at the Cliftona Theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

Action of the picture is set in a block of four adjoining houses in a suburb of a large city, where four families live their own lives in their own manners until they suddenly discover that they are closely bound to each other.

This realization develops when Miss Allen, Brook's wife, suspecting him of an affair with Miss Lee commits suicide. Brook to protect Miss Lee, makes no protest when authorities charge him with murder, and Miss Lee, who has disappeared for the sake of his domestic peace, is too far away to aid him.

Then each of the neighbors, to cover up some petty deficiency of his own, testifies at his trial in a manner damaging to him. A dramatic climax straightens affairs out.

Gullibility

WITH the best doctors in the world, the fullest enlightenment on medicine and quacks, and the most money to employ competent medical service, the people of the United Sates spend in a year only $190,000,000 for medicine prescribed by physicians but $525,000,000 for patent medicines "prescribed" by their own and largely misrepresentative advertising.

The proverb about the man who has himself for his lawyer has a fool for a client applies with even more force to medicine because there are infinitely more "fools for patients."

Not all of the $525,000,000 is spent for quack remedies but enough of that vast sum enters those channels to make the situation serious. T he man or women who buys worthless securities against good advice only stands to lose money but the user of worthless drugs stands to lose health, if not life itself.

It speaks well for the power of advertising and the pursuasiveness of the advertising writer that countless imaginary invalids have more confidence in advertised cure-alls than in the healing powers of physicians and their prescriptions. Doctors might take a cue therefrom with financial benefit to themselves and physical and mental benefit to their patients.

There can be no doubt about it that millions are driven into the pockets of the patent medicine industry each year by the high cost of doctoring. Fear of the doctor's bill leads both men and women to doctor their own ills, both real and imaginary, from the medicine ads and drug counters.

Non-Voters

IT is human nature to esteem that which is obtainable only with effort. That is why the alien sets a higher value on the privilege of the franchise than does the average native-born American, who need only accept it as a heritage. Perhaps a greater portion of the native population would be more keenly vote-conscious if the ballot were the prize in some such examination as the immigrant must undergo.

Less than half the qualified voters in the United States exercise the right of franchise even in national elections, yet three-fifths of all foreign-born whites in the country have acquired American citizenship. And if the present immigration policy continues for a few more years that three-fifths will be increased to something like nine-tenths or better.

Since the flow of immigration was checked a few years ago the work of naturalization and Americanization has been catching up with the demand. Fewer newcomers mean less raw ore dumped into the melting pot, less interference with the processes of fusion, a more homogeneous nation.

There are only about 5,000,000 unnaturalized aliens in the whole United States today, which is phenomenally few when one recalls that at the time immigration was at its peak there were nearly that many in and near New York City alone. Aiding in the work of assimilation is the economic situation, which is chasing many of the unassimilable back to the old country.

Easier Credit

REPORTS that the national credit situation is improved are substantiated by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and banking conditions in the Middle West.

Demands on the R. F. C. for bank, railroad and insurance loans have dwindled in the last month. Two corportion directors see no more of the dark days of last spring and summer. Middle West banks are advertising their credit facilities to attract loan applications for the first time in many months. Only a short time ago President Hoover found it necessary to appeal to these banks to extent feeder loans to livestock raisers.

Credit conditions in the livestock country are such that R. F. C. loans are no longer necessary, local banks being amply prepared to meet the demands. Lest it compete with the banks, the corporation is asking 7 per cent interest on feeded loans.

These turns and trends seem to bear out the view of government and financial leaders that the problems of finance have been solved and the big job remaining is to overcome industrial slackness and its closest to kin, unemployment.

None will dispute for a minute that this easing of the credit situation in the livestock regions is due to rising prices. As long as prices left no margin of profit no

"MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY"

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY

BY ANTHONY ABBOT

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY COVICI-FRIEDE INC., DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

"I told her that I had the scorpions in two boxes in my overcoat," Baldwin's letter read.

SYNOPSIS

Lola Carewe, "The Night Club Lady", and her guest, Christine Quires, are mysteriously murdered in the former's apartment. Scorpions were the instruments of death. The police suspect Guy Everett, the last person to see Christine alive. Lola had blackmailed Everett. He, however, claims that Christine discovered a plot to kill Lola and feared for her own life because of her knowledge. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt learns that a young Paris bank clerk, named Basil Boucher, loved Lola. After robbing a bank to buy her a ruby, Basil disappeared. His parents sold medical laboratory specimens. Mrs. Carewe, Lola's mother, became hysterical at the mention of Basil, calling her daughter a beast and saying Lola never loved him. Edgar Quires, Christine's brother, left his Rochester home for New York following the receipt of a telegram the day of the murders. Christine was to have inherited wealth shortly. Suspicion also points to Dr. Hugh Baldwin when it is disclosed that he purchased scorpions. He had stated heart failure caused the deaths. Colt, calling to question Baldwin, finds him dead — from a scorpion bite! Mrs. Baldwin reveals that she knew her husband was involved with Lola. In Baldwin's desk the Commissioner finds a statement in which the doctor explains he accidentally poisoned Gaylord Gifford, Lola's husband. Lola's knowledge of this placed Baldwin in her power. She forced him to supply narcotics which she used to victimize her friends and later blackmailed them. Then she ordered him to obtain a scorpion to commit a murder. Baldwin learned that Vincent Rowland, the lawyer, was behind Lola's blackmailing and realized his knowledge of their activities marked the doctor for death.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

"I TOLD Lola that I wanted to see her alone. She consented and took me into the boudoir. I told her that I had the scorpions in two boxes in my overcoat, which I had thrown over my arm as I entered her bedroom. She became very eager and entreated me to let her see them. But I hesitated. I explained to her how dangerous they were. I told her that she ought not to take risks —of any kind. Then I looked her squarely in the eyes and told her that murder was a game that was always caught.

"She looked me in the eye quite as frankly and laughed. She demanded the scorpions and full instructions as to how to manage them. I gave her the boxes with strict instructions and then I started for the door. Just as my hand was on the knob, she called to me.

"I remember her words with the most detestable distinctness.

"'Look here, Baldwin,' she said in her soft and always lovely voice. 'One of these days I may be sending for you on a hurried matter. I mean, somebody may be sick—taken sick all of a sudden. Understand?'

"I nodded. I felt I understood all too well. But I had no idea of the devilish reach of that woman's imagination.

"'Well,' she drawled, 'if that ever happens, I can tell you right now what is expected of you. When you get here, you'll find somebody that's sick. When you do, look on their arm for a bite. On the arm, remember. Then stick your hypo needle right in the bite. Do you understand?'

"I do not know to this day how I stood there without crying out against such a fiendish, damnable scheme. Yet she was looking at me, smiling, serene, beautiful. Yes, I thought, the devil is a woman and the woman is Lola Carewe.

"Vincent Rowland did not answer when I bade him good-night. I went home in the depths of despair. I tried to forget about it. I planned a trip out of town. I would not be there when I was sent for. But I was a coward—the worst coward in history. I was in too deep. I had done criminal things too long. There was no moral strength left for me to draw upon."

Here there was an interruption in this extraordinary manuscript. A smaller sheet of paper was laid between the leaves. On the top, I read:

In self-defense I said she had had heart trouble and then in self-defense I performed the trick which she had taught me. I put the needle into the bite, and thus obliterated the trace.

"But who killed her? Who killed Christine Quires — by the same deadly scorpion bite? I do not know. But I am going to get one more scorpion. After what I have done tonight — and the knowledge that Lola's papers will surely expose me—I do not care to live. Disregard all I said at the beginning of this letter—I truly die by my own hand."

Here, abruptly, the writing ended. There was no signature. Doctor Hugh Baldwin lay dead at our feet. Had he actually taken his own life, in horror and remorse? There seemed little doubt of that. But the accusations—veiled and specific which he had left behind—what of them?

The letter was not the end of the mystery. It was the beginning of a larger and more baffling problem.

Golf, horseback-riding, tennis and swimming are forms of exercise that are beneficial, but expensive and beyond the reach of many. I can think of no form of exercise that is more advantageous than walking. Walking is beneficial and within the reach of everyone.

It is a valuable exercise because it is taken outdoors. The advantages of sunshine and fresh air cannot be overemphasized. This form of exercise can be indulged in all year round. In walking, one should always be careful to see that the shoes are well fitting, with low heels and broad toes. Warm stockings should be worn as protection against dampness and cold.

Before attempting any form of exercise, consult with your physician and obtain his approval. Bear in mind that exercise which produces a state of exhaustion is harmful. A physician once remarked very wisely: "Do not overdraw your strength any more than you would your checking account."

REAL CAMERA WILL TAKE LOCAL SCENES

Cliftona Theatre Management To 'Cover' Important Happenings Here.

An effort to show Circleville and Pickaway-co movie-goers real happenings will be started this week by Sam Fox, manager of the Cliftona theatre, who has purchased a real movie camera. He will shoot various scenes during the Pumpkin Show and will later present them at the theatre under the title "The Circleville Herald-Cliftona theatre Newsreel."

The camera to be used by Mr. Fox is the same type that all the moving picture production companies use.

"Shots" from various parades, different exhibits of interest and any unusual occurrences during the big Pumpkin Show will be taken to be shown in the screen.

Mr. Fox will take pictures of any important weddings, family reunions, if they are large enough, and any other item of general importance.

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

A large cast, headed by Clive Brook, Lila Lee, Charlie Ruggles, Gene Raymond, Frances Dee, Mary Boland, and Adrianne Allen, is featured in "The Night of June 13," screen drama which opens at the Cliftona Theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

Action of the picture is set in a block of four adjoining houses in a suburb of a large city, where

four families live their own lives in their own manners until they suddenly discover that they are closely bound to each other.

This realization develops when Miss Allen, Brook's wife, suspecting him of an affair with Miss Lee, commits suicide. Brook to protect Miss Lee, makes no protest when authorities charge him with murder, and Miss Lee, who has disappeared for the sake of his domestic peace, is too far away to aid him.

Then each of the neighbors, to cover up some petty deficiency of his own, testifies at his trial in a manner damaging to him. A dramatic climax straightens affairs out.

MORMONS FIGHT REPEAL

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—Members of the latter Day Saints (Mormon) church were recently urged to strictly observe the national prohibition laws. A church publication carried editorials containing messages from President Heber J. Grant, head of the church, and the council of 12 apostles, which includes United States Senator Reed Smoot, and

THAT railroad trains follow a fixed track and cannot turn aside to avoid accidents.

That fact is well known to all motorists, although many of them pay no attention to it.

They should realize that safety at crossings depends chiefly upon caution on the part of the motorist.

The motorist who drives across railroad tracks without looking for approaching trains is just plain foolish.

When they try to beat trains acroos, they are worse than foolish.

It doesn't pay the automobolist to take chances.

The way to avoid trouble is by not taking chances.

Taking chances may cost them their life.

Taking chances may cause an accident that a life-time cannot repair.

The Daily Horoscope

Tuesday, Oct. 4, 1932

Astrologers read this as a day requiring keenness of judgment because the positive and negative forces of nature are intensely active.

The early morning hours are auspicious for political affairs, and for employers of labor and public health.

Much financial concern on the part of the public is seen this morning and the seers advise those who are contemplating investments or money commitments to proceed only after obtaining very definite information. It is not a lucky time to sell or make loans.

There is a sway favoring long journeys, and international affairs. Dealings with foreign affairs should come into prominence today as well as legal and religious matters.

Doctors and surgeons at this time may show excellent judgment in the handling of difficult cases, especially among children.

The afternoon should be devoted to ordinary routine, there being no prominent planetary stimuli for important matters. Scientific and

After 2:30 p. m., the stars promise much success for those who wish to make short trips, sign papers, leases, or other agreements. Educational affairs may improve during this afternoon; good for teachers and schools and all educational advancement.

The evening hours promise friendly aspects for mutual interests and study; a good time for creative ideas regarding publishing, advertising, law and politics. The sway is successful for visiting relations and for short journeys.

Children born on this day will be blessed with plenty of vitality and enterprise; they should be trained in money matters.

Rutherford B. Hayes, nineteenth President of the United States, was born on this date, 1822. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday, include Michael Idvorsky Pupin, 1858, American physicist; Guizot, 1787, the French historian.

Fifty and Fit

A MAN is as old—or as young—as his organs.

At fifty, you can be in your prime.

Why go along with "fairly good health" when you might be enjoying vigor you haven't felt for years?

There's a simple little thing anyone can do to keep the vital organs stimulated, and feel fit all the time. People don't realize how sluggish they've grown until they've tried it. The stimulant that will stir your system to new life is Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. It will make a most amazing difference in many ways.

This famous doctor's prescription is a delicious syrup made with fresh herbs, active senna and pure pepsin. It's first spoonful. That's all you need to drive away the dullness and headache of a bilious spell, and rid the system of that slow poison that saps your strength. It's better than a tonic for tired bowels, and unlike habit-forming laxatives you can take it freely or give it to any child. And it isn't expensive.

Get some syrup pepsin today, and take a little tonight. Don't wait until you're sick to give your system this wonderful help. You can avoid those spells of biliousness or constipation. A spoonful every now and then is better than constant worry about the condition of your bowels, or fear of auto-intoxication as you grow older. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin protects the system. All

They are not present in Luckies ... the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

VOL. 3. NO. 39. Published by STEVENSON'S Tuesday, October 4, 1932

There's a young couple living in Roundtown that originally came from another city They are living in a rented property Not having a heating appliance, and not having the ready cash with which to purchase a heater, their landlady offered to purchase one and allow them to pay her monthly with the rent. That's what we'd call a real landlady -a friend indeed Well, to get to our story, this young man, when asked what make he preferred said that he wanted an ESTATE HEATROLA Wonder why he made the Estate his preference? He KNEW what kind of a job the Estate does, for his folks have one He KNEW that the floor would be warm for the little chap in his home It is very important that the floors of your home be warm even though there may not be a little fellow in it When your "dogs" are not warm, it's just too bad.

And speaking of Heatrolas we've been kept on the jump for the past week setting them up in homes of purchasers Just last Saturday a week ago a couple came in from New Holland and purchased a large size Heatrola They have had a circulating heater sometimes called a 'heatrola' but not a genuine Estate for quite some time Not being satisfied with the imitation they bought the real Heatrola Delivery was made Sept 26th
